

MyFuture 4.0 expo - preparing kids for careers that don't exist yet

In this ever-changing digital world, experts predict that by 2025, scores of people will be working in jobs that don't exist yet. For children currently making subject choices at school, and matriculants now selecting tertiary courses, preparing for this unknown future is essential.

© Kurhan – 123RF.com

The MyFuture 4.0 digital careers expo will set out to help learners and students understand what the careers of the future will look like, what subjects they need to be studying now in order to thrive in a digital world, and what digital tools are available to help them excel in digital careers.

The expo will showcase digital skills and careers, highlighting study directions, training and career opportunities and the future employers of choice. See the innovations that will change the world of work – and even daily life, discover future-proof career directions, and hear from experts about what the workplace of the future will look like.

MyFuture 4.0 will be held from 13 - 16 March 2019 at the Ticketpro Dome, Northriding Johannesburg,

For further information, visit www.myfuture4.com

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>