

Malvin Naicker named Eaton's new director of sales for Africa

Eaton has appointed Malvin Naicker as its new director of sales in the Africa region. Naicker will be replacing Neil Primrose who will be repatriating to the United Kingdom to take up the role as the head of EMEA sales for Eaton's energy storage division.

Naicker has more than 15 years' experience in sales, management, and electrical engineering and previously worked for Schneider Electric, Siemens, and Mondi Business Paper. Naicker is an electrical engineering graduate from the Durban University of Technology and recently completed a management excellence programme at the Gordon Institute of Business Science.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>