

Marketing graduates dilemma

I have no experience, but want to start. Companies are so closed up.

I am graduating from Wits University this year. Im looking for internships and I'm trying to get in contact with someone from any marketing/advertising agency with little luck. How am I supposed to do this? The students who are in companies know someone in there personally. I have this year to get as much experience as possible then next year I enter the market... Shed some light please!
