

Databuild has a new fixer

Databuild has appointed Kate Sithole as a fixer. She is tasked with heading up the company's newly launched three-pronged service offering, which is specifically geared to helping its clients resolve challenges.

Sithole has worked as a specifier to architects for product manufacturers such as Tyl-Pro and QS Doorware and has worked for Databuild in the past as a sales executive.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>