During the meetings, there will be presentations of case studies including on the experiences of the RECs across each of these themes which will build a discussion on possible policies and their characteristics in each of the four subjects, as well as their developmental potential.

Concluding each theme will be a comparative analysis of the case studies from which recommendations will be drawn for the African continental context.

The output from the consultative meetings aspires to form the intellectual groundwork underpinning the phase II negotiations, but also inform future African negotiations with other trading partners and negotiations elsewhere in the world.

The meeting, which ran from 16 to 27 July, will bring together experts from the African Union Commission, Economic Commission for Africa, UNCTAD, AfDB, Overseas Development Institute, International Arbitration Africa, Centre for Trade Policy and Law, Cape Town University, CUTS, ARIPO, OAPI, ECOWAS, EAC, COMESA Competition Commission, SADC, among others.
