

Association for Progressive Communications Annual Report 2007

Uruguay: In existence as a virtual community since 1990, APC's leitmotif is building and strengthening online networks for social change. The 2007 Annual Report describes the challenges encountered building networks to influence international internet policy so that more people have reliable and affordable access to the internet, networks of technicians who are taking wireless to parts of Latin America where there's no internet, and networks of women concerned about keeping the internet safe but not censored.
