

Applications open for Unreasonable East Africa accelerator programme

Applications have opened for the Unreasonable East Africa accelerator programme, which claim to give an "unreasonable advantage" to entrepreneurs creating solutions to the region's biggest social and environmental problems.

By Tom Jackson 28 Dec 2017

Image credit: rawpixel via Pexels.

The 10-month programme focuses on for-profit and financially sustainable non-profit businesses across a number of sectors, based in Uganda, Kenya, Tanzania and Rwanda.

Unreasonable East Africa will select a group of 15 companies to work alongside more than 100 mentors and connect them with a network of funders. Since late 2013, it has run three programmes with 29 companies, which have to date raised over $5.2m in funding, created more than 380 jobs, and benefitted the lives of more than 850,000 people.

Applicant startups must have revenues of at least $20,000 and a viable business model, be between three and five years old, and have a team of at least two people. Entries close on 10 January 2018.

This article was originally published on www.disrupt-africa.com.