WiT, which has been running its conference in Singapore since 2005, with editions running in South Korea (Seoul); Japan and North Asia (Tokyo), as well as the Middle East (Dubai). The WiT events are considered an important catalyst for growth of the online travel industry, particularly in the emerging world.

The event is known for championing innovation and fostering startup ecosystems by bringing startups and investors together and for building bridges between regions and global markets. Its content typically blends global oversight and expertise with local insights to ensure its relevance to local players.
