This new category celebrates the very best African content creators and is designed to honour creators from various African countries who are making remarkable contributions to the digital space.

Now in its third year, the Awards celebrate and recognise the talent and creativity of digital content creators who are shaping the future of entertainment and storytelling. Entries opened 3 May for the Awards.

"We are so excited to extend the DStv Content Creator Awards to include the Pan-African Creator Award this year. Our goal is to celebrate the incredible talent found throughout Africa and to provide a platform where these creators can gain international visibility and inspire a new generation of storytellers," says Manuela Dias De Deus, founder of the DStv Content Creator Awards.
