It's a great day to be a Telkom subscriber and a call-a-holic, not so much a data splurger.

The telecommunications giant today unveiled a set of new FreeMe promo bundles valid for calls across all networks.

"These bundles can be used to call any mobile network within South Africa and can be purchased as once-off or recurring bundles," the company states in a release.

Notably, the bundles will be billed per second and remain valid for 31 days. They're also available for contract and top-up customers on both the FreeMe and FreeMe Family deals.

But how much will you pay for these?

For now, Telkom's introducing four bundles, namely:

- 100 minutes for R40 | 1.5c per second
- 200 minutes for R80 | 1.5c per second

- 300 minutes for R100 | 1.8c per second
- 500 minutes for R150 | 2c per second
