

Trash Cabaret takes to Langa theatre this November

Trash Cabaret: Live in Langa will be taking place at the Guga S'thebe Theatre on Saturday, 26 November from 7pm-11pm.

Trash Cabaret is a multi-cultural circus cabaret extravaganza featuring artists and performers from around the world. Concert-goers can look forward to a gypsy contingent of 70+ performing artists, including burlesque dancers, acrobats, fire performers, mixed martial artists, dancers and musicians, led by Ringmaster Riaan Smit of Crimson House against the auditory backdrop of a full brass band. Confirmed performers include the Unknown Dance Crew, Psychedelic Theatre, Sky Dance Studio, ActionArte and Black Orchid Burlesque in collaboration with the Rouge Revue, and so much more.

Tickets for Trash Cabaret: Live in Langa are available from Quicket. The price is determined according to a staggered phasing system, which means an additional R20 is added to the price each week leading up to the event.

Growing the arts

In order to support the growth of the arts in South Africa's informal settlements, 25% of the proceeds will be donated to ActionArte, a social enterprise and NGO that is situated in Hanover Park and runs upliftment projects among the local youth in the form of school programmes, community workshops and a multi-spectrum approach that creates awareness and interest in emerging artists.

To ensure safe parking in the vicinity, a visible squadron of car guards, private security wardens and police support will be in attendance. Concert-goers can also make use of a shuttle service that will depart from a central pickup point behind the Spar in Observatory at 6pm. Transport tickets can be bought on Quicket or the bus driver can be paid the fee of R20 directly.
