

Splashy Fen adds additional artists to the lineup

Following the news that Australian megastars The Temper Trap will be headlining at the Splashy Fen Music Festival 2017, event organisers have announced the next phase of local and international artists set to perform in the Underberg from 13-16 April.

The Splashy Fen 2017 Phase Two Acts include the Parlotones, Shortstraw, Rubber DUC and Veranda Panda.

Shortstraw

Announcing another international act

In addition, a musical treat awaits Splashy Fenners next year as America's Rodney Branigan – Splashy Fen's second international artist – has confirmed his presence at the event and has included Splashy on his festival-to-do list.

Having toured the world several times, and supporting artists such as Jack Johnson, Billy Bragg and G-Love, Branigan proves he is top of his craft. Branigan's musical magic includes performing with two guitars at once and a delightful songwriting ability.

Over 200 musicians will perform for fans across five stage areas throughout the four day festival – with the new Treehouse stage set to add a whimsical element to the festivities.

Other acts include The Springbok Nude Girls, Jack Parow, December Streets and Desmond and the Tutus.

Tickets

Tickets are available at www.splashyfen.co.za. Plus, if one buys two tickets between 5 and 22 December, one may enjoy a discounted Christmas price of R700 per ticket.
