

Webafrika opens its doors in Johannesburg

Internet service provider Webafrika has recently opened up its doors in Johannesburg. "Expanding out from Cape Town, we opened our Johannesburg doors in February this year in the form of a sales office," explains Webafrika sales director, Myron Salant.

The Johannesburg office currently employs six people with plans to continue its growth both from an employer point of view as well as with regards to expanding its footprint into the region.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>