🗱 BIZCOMMUNITY

SANEF debate: newsrooms should never shy from discussing ethics

By Greg Nicolson

29 Mar 2012

Editors and spin doctors met on Wednesday, 28 March 2012, to debate the ethical state of South African journalism. The panel and high-profile audience were unanimous on one thing: we need a renewed focus on ethics in SA newsrooms. But just what's the problem and how can we address it?

The idea for the South African National Editors' Forum (SANEF) debate came from City Press editor Ferial Haffajee (@ferialhaffajee) after the storm caused by master spin-doctor Chris Vick's Confessions columns.

...On debate's Wednesday instalment, Haffajee said it's cowardly of Vick to spread "skulduggery" suggesting the industry is corrupt without substantiating his claims. A debate ensued over whether he should name and shame those that bribe reporters, but Vick (@chrisvick3) said he had approached the journalists' editors with no result.

Read the full article on www.dailymaverick.co.za.

For more:

- Business Day: Editors ask Vick for names in bribery claims see video link at bottom
- Business Day: Blurring the lines between PR and journalism Chris Vick's latest column
- M&G Online: Media debate highlights need to nurture ethics
- IOL: Credibility crisis for media
- IOL: Talk about media ethics, editors told
- The Citizen: Media ethics in the spotlight
- Google News Search: SANEF debate Chris Vick
- Twitter Search: #sanef OR "Chris Vick"

ABOUT GREG NICOLSON

Greg Nicolson is a journalist at the Daily Maverick (dailymaverick.co.za) and iMaverick (imaverick.co.za). Follow himon Twitter at @gregnicolson and connect on LinkedIn.

LGE DA digs in on Joburg advertising 'abuse' - 27 Jul 2016
Advertising spoofs: we can all get along - 26 Apr 2012

SANEF debate: new srooms should never shy from discussing ethics - 29 Mar 2012

View my profile and articles...

For more, visit: https://www.bizcommunity.com