

Want to know the key role in a company that needs to be future ready?

By  John Sanei

23 Nov 2015

No, its not a CEO, COO or CMO...

For the longest time I've been perplexed by this question: why the board members of most businesses are educated in the old ways? CAs, lawyers, engineers, etc, although these might be key skill sets, they are not able to navigate the business through what's going on in the world currently. Mostly CEOs, CIOs, CMOs are not asking the right questions in this new world of business (similar to the republican party in the States, in my opinion).

But I've realised that they are all perfectly positioned in their roles. All they need is a CFO. No, not a Chief Financial Officer, but a Chief Future Officer. This is becoming more and more an imperative role - to keep an eye on what's coming, constantly looking for the gaps and advising the board's thinking and decision making process.

It's kind of what a CEO used to do but that's when the world moved a lot slower and he or she could just make incremental changes as and when the market moved, slowly, slowly...

But 'slowly, slowly' is not part of the our vocabulary any more, so the Board and the CEO needs a CFO more than ever... call it 'the co pilot'!

© Inspirestock International (Exclusive Contributor) – 123RF.com

Five steps to get a CFO:

1. Start asking different questions
2. Start identifying people who are natural early adopters
3. Convince your partners / board members that its a vital role
4. Explore
5. Hire, and move into the future confidently...

ABOUT JOHN SANEI

Futures Strategist John Sanei makes sense of future trends and merges them so individuals and organisations can forge forward with confidence, elevating their leadership vision to exponential heights. At the intersection of human science, neuroscience, quantum technology, futurism and business strategy, John has a knack for sharing his knowledge and creating meaningful connections. He ignites platforms, connects with crowds and leaves an empowering perspective that lasts long after the lights have switched off.

- Servicing the customer of the future - 13 May 2021
- Commitment is a game changer in an uncertain world - 15 Mar 2021
- #BizTrends2019: The acceleration of acceleration - 8 Jan 2019
- The digital revolution is futile without a customer focus - 17 Feb 2017
- Want to know why the Kardashians have become so popular? - 20 Jul 2016

View my profile and articles...

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>