

Bay Harbour Market in Hout Bay reopens

The Bay Harbour Market in Hout Bay, Cape Town has reopened with its focus on all things local, including a lineup of South African talent on the Fever-Tree Sound Stage every Friday evening, Saturday and Sunday.

A selection of local wines, craft beers and gins are all on offer to enjoy with the cuisine, from street food to nibbly bits and platters. Fashion, leather accessories, décor, art, collectables, crafts and gifting are also on offer.

Apart from Bay Harbour Market, the region has more to offer. Take a walk down to Hout Bay beach or perhaps a drive around Chapman's Peak for the world-renowned scenery. World of Birds, the largest bird park in Africa, is as old as the hills and still extremely popular, especially for the younger ones. If you are feeling adventurous, take a boat cruise and explore the coastline from a different perspective.
