

AASA's chair and deputy chair re-elected for 2021-22

The Airlines Association of Southern Africa (AASA) has extended the terms of the current chairperson and deputy chairperson for another year.

Elmar Conradie, CEO of FlySafair, will serve as AASA's chairperson, while Agnes Khunwana, CEO of Air Botswana, will serve as AASA's deputy chairperson. Their re-appointments were unanimously approved at AASA's 51st Annual General Assembly held online. They have held their positions since March 2021.
