

Ibhayi Sunshine Saunter and BeerYard

Day two of Bizcommunity's sho't left to Nelson Mandela Bay this week included a taster of the Ibhayi Sunshine Saunter, learning more about the SA Marine Rehabilitation and Education Centre's work with marine animals, bracing the southeaster at Pati Beach, and discovering some of the history that lies along the Sacramento Trail.

Penguins at the SA Marine Rehabilitation and Education Centre

Pati Beach on the Ibhayi Sunshine Saunter

Cannon salvaged from the 1647 Sacramento wreck

Sacramento Trail in Sardinia Bay

Miniature version of the mohair-producing Angora goat

Mohair SA in PE

Niall Cook, brewer at Richmond Hill Brewing Company

BeerYard

PEceramicist Ayanda Mji

Ceramic art by Ayanda Mji

A trip to the Mohair South Africa store revealed the unique qualities of this natural fibre. From curtains to carpets, mohair is super versatile. Up next was beer tasting at BeerYard, where one can enjoy "craft beer without any of the pretentiousness". The day's activities concluded with a township tour and a visit to ceramicist Ayanda Mji who uses clay to express her feelings about life's battles and victories.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>