

2017 Startupbootcamp InsurTech fast-track tour mid-August

European accelerator programme Startupbootcamp will be giving young InsurTech startups the opportunity to engage with industry experts and showcasing South Africa's entrepreneurial talent at the third Startupbootcamp InsurTech fast-track days taking place on 14 August and 17 August 2017 in Johannesburg and Cape Town respectively.

What is fast-track?

FastTrack days are a series of events hosted all over the globe by Startupbootcamp, where startups are given an opportunity to present their insurance technology-related business idea to the Startupbootcamp InsurTech team and industry experts. FastTrack sessions are open to innovative early stage startups specialising in insurance related areas: virtual and augmented reality; blockchain; artificial intelligence and machine learning; internet of things and wearables; drones and robots; cyber security; data analysis and big data; life science and genome; MedTech and digital health; and customer experience.

What to expect?

Startups can expect one-on-one mentoring sessions with local industry experts in the insurance, investment and entrepreneurship industries who will answer questions and provide startups with real, life-learned advice on how to improve products, services, business models as well as pitching skills. After the FastTrack tour, Startupbootcamp InsurTech will select 10 startups to take part in a three-month intensive insurance acceleration programme in London.

Benefits to successful fast-track startups

Successful startups join the watch list, an opportunity to be selected for the Startupbootcamp InsurTech accelerator programme as well as:

- Extensive mentorship from 400+ entrepreneurs, investors, and partners
- Access to top markets in London, Europe, and Asia-Pacific
- Three+ months' free office space
- €15K in cash per team
- €450K+ in partner services
- Invitation to Startupbootcamp global alumni network
