

The British Council makes second call for entries for social enterprise accelerator

The British Council, in partnership with the Seed Academy and the Social Enterprise Academy, is making its second calling for applications for its first-ever fully-funded, high-impact, social enterprise accelerator.

The programme is designed to support creative social enterprises that are at the ideation and growth stages to build or enhance their business models and bring social impact to the forefront of their work.

All eligible applicants need to be active in the creative and cultural industries, be either a start-up or growth enterprise looking for mentoring, and committed to social entrepreneurial or community ventures.

The deadline is 31 May 2019. Click here to apply.
